

Kirk Zeller, DBA

Kirk Zeller is a nearly 30 year veteran of the medical device industry with extensive global commercial experience having lived, worked, and studied in US, Europe, and Asia. Kirk is currently the Co-founder of MedMarket Access, LLC and on the boards of Progressive NEURO, Inc, Radux Devices, and MedMarket Access, LLC. Kirk is also the founder of the Silicon Prairie Center, an entrepreneur live and work incubator.

Kirk's hobby is filmmaking and during the pandemic he combined his passions for technology, the medical device industry and Japan into a pandemic themed feature film, A Wall Away, that is now available on Amazon, Apple TV, and many other platforms. It was reported by The Hollywood Reporter to be the first feature film in history to be entirely directed remotely and won numerous awards at festivals around the world.

Kirk has a Doctorate of Business Administration from the International School of Management (Paris) and an MBA with a specialization in Health Technology Entrepreneurship from Imperial College London with research for both degrees focused on medical device start-ups.
