

Tom Kluz | Managing Director, Niterra Ventures

Tom Kluz serves as the Managing Partner at Niterra Ventures, spearheading global investments on behalf of Niterra Co., LTD across medical, energy & environment, and mobility sectors. While he oversees investment endeavors in all these domains, Tom is particularly renowned for his deep expertise in healthcare. This distinction stems from a decade-long stint as the Head of Global Healthcare Investing at Qualcomm Ventures and a pivotal role at Providence Ventures. While at Qualcomm, he pioneered dRx Capital, a collaborative venture between Qualcomm and Novartis. His association with industry stalwarts like Eric Topol and Don Jones led to strategic investments in, and board roles at, companies such as AliveCor, Cala Health, Doctor On Demand, Noom, and Science 37. Before his tenure at Qualcomm, Tom made a mark at Providence St. Joseph Health's corporate venture capital wing, a major U.S. healthcare system. There, he championed investments in noteworthy ventures like AVIA, Collective Medical, Lyra Health, Omanda, Wildflower, and Xealth.