

U.S.-Japan Healthcare Connection

2025 Japan Week Conference - Event Sponsorship Opportunities

Overview

Originally launched in 2014, the US-Japan Healthcare Innovation Conference is dedicated to driving innovation in the healthcare sectors of the US and Japan by bringing together leaders in the life sciences industry, government and academia to discuss the latest trends and topics that are changing the face of healthcare.

Our 2025 annual conference will focus on the theme of "How AI and Science Are Driving the Future of Medicine" and will feature keynote presentations by Gordon Saul, Executive Director of the Stanford Mussallem Center for Biodesign, and Prof. Yoshiki Sawa, Osaka University Graduate School of Medicine and others.

The conference is organized by the US-Japan Healthcare Connection (www.usihealthcare.org) a collaborative initiative of the Japan Society of Northern California (JSNC) and US-Japan Medtech Frontiers (USJMF), two organizations dedicated to promoting cooperation and understanding between the US and Japan. Our partners and co-organizers for this year's event are LINK-J Japan and Osaka University Medical School.
